FSD TIGERS BROADCASTER TAKES A SWING AT THE ISSUES IN THE ALCS

1 What went wrong for Max Scherzer in Game 6? Max looked totally different than he had against the Rangers earlier in this series, and in his career. He's an overpowering fastball pitcher, but he threw lots of changeups and sliders in his two-plus innings. He also walked four batters, which was a really bad sign going against that offense. For me, the key Saturday night was that one, he didn't attack the strike zone with firm fastballs and two, he walked too many batters. It was only the third time this season he walked three batters, and you can't do that against the Texas Rangers.
